01 · ABOUT THE SUMMIT

Where the countries that hold Article 6 supply meet the capital that can buy and finance it

The Article 6 market is alive. 130 countries have designated an Article 6 authority, the first sovereign ITMOs have been transferred, and more than two billion tonnes of supply are in the pipeline to 2030. What the market still lacks is the meeting point between the countries that hold this supply and the capital that can buy and finance it.

The Article 6 Summit is that meeting point. Held in Bonn while government delegations and Designated National Authorities (DNAs) gather for the June UNFCCC sessions, it brings the private sector — investors, corporate buyers, project developers and traders — to the Paris Agreement Carbon Market, and puts them face to face with the countries building it.

WHY IT MATTERS

Article 6 can turn countries' climate results into a sovereign asset class that raises and leverages capital for development. That only happens if supply and demand meet, if buyers understand what they are buying, and if finance arrives before the credits are issued. The Article 6 Summit exists to make those connections happen — in one day, in the one place where the market's governments already are.

ABOUT ARTICLE 6 NETWORK

Article 6 Network is a Swiss-based, member-based non-profit association, in formation in Geneva, created to catalyse the Paris Agreement Carbon Market — the world's only globally compliant carbon market. It brings together host and buyer governments, investors, corporates, project developers and market infrastructure, through Article 6 News, the Article 6 Academy, the annual report The State of the Article 6 Carbon Market, the Global Survey and the Article 6 Summit. Membership is free for individuals and governments; businesses join as partners.
